

Emerging protocols in Applied Biomagnetic Therapy

During the last number of months there has been new thinking arising in my practice in Applied Biomagnetic therapy.

The first of these is the inputting of the biomagnetic balance into the energy field of the body. Up to now we have simply placed magnets on a pair, e.g., thymus to rectum, parietal parietal etc. we have also learned to energetically input the biomagnetic force into a pair positive negative pole. In the last number of months, it has emerged that the main purpose of balancing 2 poles within the body is to activate the biomagnetic field.

What emerges is that when we place a pair of magnets, that we are actually activating a new biomagnetic field or a stronger biomagnetic field into those areas of the body. So, in effect, we are activating the biomagnetic force between two points.

From an energetic point of view, it has proven to be very useful to voice the command “activation of the biomagnetic field of thymus to rectum” or “activation thymus rectum at 10,000 gauss for 100 minutes.”

So using the command “activation” as we place a pair of magnets enhances the speed and regularity and consistency with which the biomagnetic field reforms into a balanced state. In relation to using magnets themselves, we have been finding it useful to point from one pole to another as you place the magnet – so you place the magnet on the Thymus for example and then it balances on the left parietal, so it is useful to give the command, out loud “activation biomagnetic field thymus parietal 5000 Gauss,50 minutes” and then place the magnets. In this case you are adding the intention of activation to the placements of the magnets and the creation of a more coherent biomagnetic field.

I would encourage you to become aware of the negative to positive pole, to point to it and to use the command “activate” or “activation” as you place the pair either with the magnets or bio energetically.
